FOR CEOS & EXECUTIVE TEAMS

Important conversations at work shouldn't be handled on instinct.

Swipe to see what changes before the next one.

WHAT REACHES THE BUSINESS

Most people issues that hit the business start with one conversation.

Handled badly — or too late.

MEET EM

BEFORE

A personal coach before the conversation.

Feedback | 1:1s | Difficult conversations

Ask Em about the person and the situation.

A real conversation.
A specific person.

YOU

Marek missed the deadline again. I meet him in an hour. How should I start?

EM

Going straight to the missed deadline may make Marek defend himself. Start with the impact. Then ask what happened and what needs to change.

Context: you, the other person and this situation.

A CEO'S PERSPECTIVE

“Empatyzer helps people understand themselves and others, and approach relationships more consciously. Not every leader reads emotions well — but every leader should.”

Łukasz Wołek

CEO, Grupa Eura7

★★★★★ 5.0/5 on Capterra

A diagnosis keeps Em from giving generic advice.

01	DIAGNOSIS	Traits, talents, motivators and tensions
02	ASK EM	Help for this person, team or department
03	MICRO-LESSONS	Two short lessons each week

WHAT CHANGES FOR THE ORGANIZATION

Support reaches managers earlier.

Before problems reach HR or the board.

MANAGERS	prepare the conversation
HR	keeps time for hard cases
BOARD	sees fewer avoidable escalations

PRIVACY IS PART OF THE PRODUCT

Conversations with Em are private.

The company does not read questions or answers.

The organization sees aggregate statistics — not private conversations.
